

I think it is ridiculous that the FCC / Government would try to stop the type of traffic information being provided by XM-Radio. This is just good competition, the local radio stations could have provided the same service, but they didn't. So they shouldn't cry about it after they missed the opportunity.